RÉSUMÉ :

Mira (played by Lois WEBER) is a poor young woman reduced to wearing ragged clothing and living on the street. Vaughn, an artist, sees her plight and hires her as a cleaning woman in his studio. On one occasion, when she tiredly sits on the model's stand, he paints her portrait, and the painting is accepted for exhibition at the academy. On a later occasion, she dons a beautiful dress left at the studio by one of the models. Vaughn again paints her, names thhhe picture "Fine Feathers" and it too is accepted as a companion piece for the other painting at the exhibition. A wealthy clubman meets Mira at Vaughn's studio and is quite attracted to her, offering to "educate" her if she would leave Vaughn. Since Vaughn had previously refused to marry her, she is about to accept the offer, but Vaughn realizes that he really loves her, and proposes marriage.
